

BRF needs your support

Much of what we do at BRF is only made possible through the generosity of the individuals, churches and charitable trusts that support our work. Sales of our Bible reading notes and other resources generate income that covers the costs of producing them; we charge fees for some of the training and the Barnabas RE Days that we lead in schools, which contribute to the cost of providing them. But we are dependent also each year on the financial support of those who share the vision for our Foundations21, Messy Church, Barnabas in Churches and Barnabas in Schools ministries.

Your support is therefore vital. Would you consider a donation or a regular gift by direct debit to help us develop our work in the years ahead? Would you ask your church to consider BRF as part of its giving to home mission? Would you consider a legacy gift to enable us to develop a particular project within one of our ministries? If you would like to discuss how a particular gift could make a difference, please contact Richard Fisher, Chief Executive.

Whatever you are able to do to help, we are extremely grateful.
